

OLD VIRGINIA TO PUT ON NEW CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT

The Dawn of a New and a Better Era at Hand—Revised and Amended Organic Law Becomes Operative on Thursday—Will Shed Peace and Prosperity Abroad.

THE SHIP OF STATE HAS BEEN REBUILT.

"Ring out the old,
Ring in the new;
Ring out the false,
Ring in the true."

This will be the glad song of the great white race of long-suffering but regenerate Virginians, which will reverberate from every valley and hilltop in the old Commonwealth when the bells toll the hour of noon on Thursday next.

It will be a gala day for the noble sons of the old State, who still cherish clean and honest government and who will welcome a return of organic conditions which will breathe honesty in every department of their State and dispel the black cloud which has hung like a threatening pall over them and their fellows for so many years.

At the hour named above the new Constitution will become effective, and the State will pass under an entirely different organic system of government without the slightest jar or the slipping of a single cog in its vast machinery.

It is a tribute to the symmetry and utility of republican institutions that a great State may pass in the twinkling of an eye to new conditions, involving drastic changes, without the slightest jolt or the unearthing of any of its intricate construction.

THOROUGHLY OVERHAULED.
The old ship of state, bulged by war and skillful hands more than a hundred years ago, but disfigured, if not dishonored, by a subsequent period, has been in the dry dock for repairs for the past twelve months.

The launching will take place in a quiet and unpretentious manner at 12 o'clock next Thursday. She has been overhauled and made new from bow to stern, from keel to mast, and it is the best judgment of the people that she is prepared to weather the storms in the courts of the land or elsewhere.

Everything is in readiness for the launching. The ways have been greased, the ship is manned, her mast and rigging are in order, her sails are set and she is expected to slide gracefully out upon the bosom of the deep, and move like a thing of life and beauty on a smooth and prosperous voyage.

PROCLAMATION ISSUED.
In conformity with the provisions of the schedule Governor Montague has already issued two proclamations—one notifying the people that the instrument will be in full force and effect on July 10th, and calling upon them to give it recognition and support, and the other convening the General Assembly in extraordinary session on July 15th to put it into operation.

That both of these proclamations will meet with general approval and support there is now no reasonable doubt. The people are believed to have always been saturated with a desire for constitutional reform, and they have given the convention their loyal support at every stage of its proceedings. No one expects that the action of the Legislature will be at and inquiring as to the advisability of a movement against taking the oath, but replies to his letters, have, for the most part, been frosty, and he will have but few followers, if he shall determine to fight.

The long and short of it is that the people of Virginia have built a constitutional structure so high and strong that the winds and the floods will not shake it, for it is founded upon the bedrock of principles of equal opportunities to all of equal rights.

When the myriad clocks of the old Commonwealth shall register the hour of noon next Thursday, a disenthralled and regenerated people will felicitate themselves upon the dawn of a new and prosperous era in old Virginia, and will breathe the glad new air of "Peace on earth, good will to men" to their brethren in the other and younger States of their united common country.

ARBITRATORS

Names Proposed in the Long Contested Pius Claim of $1,000,000.

(By Associated Press.)
ROME, July 5.—In view of the possibility of The Hague International Tribunal recommending to arbitrators of the Italian claim, he has chosen to settle the question between the United States and Mexico regarding the Pius claim, the following names have been suggested:

Signor Zanardelli, the Italian Premier; the Italian Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, Count Nigra; the Italian Ambassador to France, Count Tornelli; the President of the Senate, Signor Saraceni; the President of the Chamber of Deputies, Signor Benvenuti; and Senator Valerio and Visconti Venosta.

The latter were chosen by King Victor Emmanuel to study the Anglo-Brazilian dispute regarding the boundary of British Guiana, in which His Majesty is arbitrator.

The Pius claim, amounting to about $1,000,000, has been pending for about a third of a century. It involves a dispute between the Catholic Church in California and the Government of Mexico, as to the liability of the latter for the interest on certain church lands which the Mexican Government undertook to hold as trustee for the church.

HIS BACK BROKEN

Human Bomb Will Die as Result of a Slow Fuse.

(By Associated Press.)
LOUISVILLE, KY., July 5.—In the presence of five thousand spectators, a meeting was held at the University of Louisville, to discuss the "Last Days of Pompeii" on the common opposite Churchill Downs, James Duff, known as the "human bomb," received injuries, which probably will result in his death.

It is the last part of the performance to be held high in the air by a bomb which explodes releasing a parachute by which the performer returns to earth. To-night the bomb was shot into the air as usual, but when it reached its great altitude it failed to explode and started to the earth with the victim unable to release himself. As the missile was within 100 feet of the ground it suddenly exploded and to the horror of the spectators Duff was dashed to the earth and the performance brought to a close. When the victim was picked up it was found that his back was broken. He was taken to the City Hospital.

MURDERED PRESIDENTS

Tablet Commemorating Them Unveiled in New York.

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 5.—A bronze tablet commemorating the three murdered Presidents—Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley—was unveiled at the West Side Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, in Fifty-seventh Street.

The tablet, with a fine marble slab forming the base, is about three feet square and is placed on the east wall of the reading room. It is the work of E. St. John Matthews, and is a gift to the association by Peter Winchester.

Below the group of heads there is a sentiment in the words of Bishop Potter, as follows: "Serene, clear-eyed and strong, the images of noble souls, in service loyal and unswerving; at home, spotless, unselfish and most tender; men's homage and their love shall never cease to follow them."

Robert Colgate presided at the ceremonies, which began with a prayer by Rev. B. Q. Denham, followed by the singing of "America," after which an address was delivered by Marnay Williams.

BANG OF HAMMERS IN WHITE HOUSE

Residence of Nation's Chief is Undergoing Repairs.

CAPITOL HAS A DESERTED AIR

Chief Wilkie Breathes Freer Since President Has Left Temporary Residence Where Work of Assassins Might Easily Be Accomplished.

(Special Dispatch to The Times.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 5.—With the adjournment of Congress and the departure of the President for Oyster Bay, where he will spend the entire summer, not returning to Washington until late in October, Washington seems like a deserted village to those whose work and emment at the Capitol, where, for several months past, there has been so much life, only a few committee rooms and document rooms and the offices of officials connected with the Supreme Court show any signs of activity.

The corridors and stairways of the great building, which during the session of Congress are fairly alive with Senators and Congressmen, visiting politicians, office-seeking constituents, lobbyists, newspaper men and many other specimens of humanity, whose business, curiosity or pleasure leads them to the haunts of the legislator, are now almost entirely deserted save for the never-ending flow of sight-seers, who, guided in hand by wandering around the public parks and buildings of Washington at all seasons of the year.

HAMMERS BANG.
At the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue a like quiet would reign were it not for the fact that the White House has been turned over to the workmen, who are making the interior changes President Roosevelt has requested. All the offices of the Executive Mansion have been moved to a house on Lafayette Square, just across the street from the White House, and there the President has been doing all his work for some time. Of course the Executive Mansion proper will be at Oyster Bay during the summer, but a large force of clerks in charge of Assistant Secretary Barnes will remain in Washington to look after the work at this end of the line, and temporary quarters will be kept open to be ready for the President should he find it necessary at any time to return to Washington.

It may be added in regard to the present temporary Executive office building that the offices of the Secret Service, headed by Chief Wilkie, of the Secret Service, breathed a sigh of relief last Thursday when the President left his new office. Ever since President Roosevelt and his staff have been in the house on Lafayette Avenue the local detectives have been in a high state of nervous excitement on account of his being so much exposed. Hardly a move was made by the President while there that could be seen from the street, and the windows of the houses on H Street, and it would have been an easy matter for an assassin to station himself in one of these back windows and plot Mr. Roosevelt with a rifle bullet.

Mr. Roosevelt, off with a rifle bullet, making good his escape before the police could find out where the shot was fired. IS NOT AFRAID.

It must be said of Roosevelt, however, that he seems very little afraid of the thought of being shot, and he walks and rides about Washington and the surrounding country with perfect freedom and apparent unconcern. He and General Leonard Wood are in the habit of frequenting the back of outdoor life they ride and walk together constantly. Some times they are accompanied by a groom, but frequently they go unattended. Once in a while, President Roosevelt, when he is in the city, is seen in the streets, and he is usually accompanied by a driver to meet him at some point several miles distant, he strikes out across the fields for a good walk alone. He is a very strong man, physically, and seems to possess an inexhaustible supply of vital energy. After a hard day's work he seems to desire nothing better than a good night's sleep.

Miss Alice Roosevelt, who is naturally quite slender, is following in the footsteps of her father, and has taken up riding and driving as her regular exercises. In addition to her regular riding and driving she has gone in for indoor exercises with the dumbbells and clubs with the result that she has acquired a fine physique. She has gained fifteen pounds in the last few months.

LACK OF PRIVACY.
Not the least interested in the changes that are being wrought in the White House are Mrs. Roosevelt and the rest of the President's household. Hardly in the lot of the family of any public man in Washington, and that of the family of the President is, of course, no exception. The White House is a tenfold harder than the lot of any other family in the city. The President's family is a large family, and the President's family is a large family.
